Since the middle of October 1942, the 1114th Quartermaster Company had the headache of obtaining groceries and clothing for the thousands of men on the base. Under the leadership of Captain Edwin Barry, the company has done an excellent job of catering to the many and varied demands of a combat group in spite of a shortage of personnel and transport.

In addition to feeding the populace, they have fought pitched battles with rationing boards in efforts to get more coke and coal for barracks and speed up the turnover of laundry and shoe repair. Other duties include handling of lend-lease supplies and obtaining gasoline for the motor transport and aircraft.

The 1114th QM Company has followed the 303rd Group since both organizations were activated in 1942 at Gowen Field, Idaho. When the group moved, the QM boys were only a jump behind them and finally landed in England a month after the group's arrival at its base.
